UMBRELLA INSURANCE

Protect your assets with excess liability coverage

Personal excess liability insurance — commonly known as an “umbrella insurance” — is designed to cover damages that you are legally obligated to pay to another party because of bodily injury, property damage, or personal injury, such as libel or slander. Large claims for personal damages can stem from:

- An auto accident,
- Accidental injury on one’s property,
- Accidental damage to another’s property, or
- Reputational damage caused by a social media post or public remark.

While you may have some personal liability coverage through your homeowners or auto insurance policy, that coverage is typically limited. Umbrella insurance extends beyond the liability limits provided by the primary policies for your home or automobile and provides additional protection of your assets.
